

Introduction

Volumes 1 and 2 in this series address how to find your place in intentional community by either creating or joining one. But how can this experience—and communities themselves—last past the “honeymoon” phase? How can groups turn long-term ideals into reality within their lives together?

A combination of “soft” and “hard” skills and systems must be present for intentional communities and their members to endure, evolve, and thrive. Sustainability in both human and ecological relationships is key to developing a cooperative culture that lasts—and is the focus of Wisdom of Communities Volumes 3 and 4.

The stories in this third volume focus on the “soft” skills and approaches—the human dimension of community living. Authors share experiences, tools, advice, and perspectives that will benefit anyone who wants to help their community function well and support members’ well-being.

Articles explore the nuts and bolts of living together in community: creating and sustaining a cooperative group culture; decision-making and governance (including extensive reflections on consensus as well as Diana Leafe Christian’s complete series on sociocracy); power, gender, class, and race; relationships and intimacy; politics and neighbor relations. These are all essential areas that communities need to address if they are to retain members and develop strong and healthy group connection.

Communitarians often discover that the quality of life they experience has much more to do with the quality of their interactions with each other than with physical amenities. Systems, structures, agreements, understandings, awareness, cultural practices, and self-education can all contribute to increasing that quality of life. Learning about these “soft skills” from others engaged in similar work can help communities immeasurably.

All articles are drawn from the past decade of COMMUNITIES magazine. Every issue of COMMUNITIES contains further treatments of these and similar themes, so we hope that you’ll not only learn from these past stories, but also keep up with new ones by subscribing to the magazine (ic.org/subscribe).

Thanks for making use of these resources, and good luck on your community journey!

Chris Roth
Editor, COMMUNITIES
May 2018

Social Permaculture—What Is It? .....	34
Communities 173, 10–13	Starhawk
Ecological relationships are relatively easy to deal with. Human relationships are often much more difficult, but we can design social structures that favor beneficial patterns of behavior.
Social Permaculture: Applying the Principles .....	38
Communities 173, 16	Brush
Permaculture’s 12 principles apply to human groups just as much as to any other ecological system.
Five Tools to Help Groups Thrive .....	39
Communities 173, 24–26	Melanie Rios
A clearly articulated evolutionary purpose, a welcoming of the whole self, and governance through self-management are keys to collective success.
 II. DECISION-MAKING AND GOVERNANCE
Pulling Proposals Out of a Hat (or Some Orifice) .....	45
Communities 140, 53, 73	Laird Schaub
Our newest FIC blogger offers four aids to efficient and energizing group proposal generation—replacing battling, coercion, and rigidity with curiosity, flexibility, and bridge-building.
Best Meetings .....	48
Communities 141, 12–15	Tree Bressen, Beatrice Briggs, Laird Schaub
What makes the “best” community meetings turn out so well?
Open Meetings: Worth the Risk? .....	52
Communities 147, 10–12	Tree Bressen, Beatrice Briggs, Laird Schaub
How can groups simultaneously welcoming of and skittish about outside participation in meetings balance competing needs and concerns?
Money, Power, and Process: How We Pulled the Plug on Consensus. .....	56
Communities 148, 22–25	Kees Kolff
The creators and owners of Port Townsend EcoVillage wrestle with power imbalances as they temporarily suspend consensus process in order to move their cooperative group project forward.
• EcoVillage Resident Reflections—Marc Weinblatt, Ruth Baldwin, Bekka Bloom
The Awesome Power of the Non-Consenting Voice. .....	60
Communities 148, 48–49, 76	Arjuna da Silva
Balancing the urge to express ourselves with respect for the history and time investments of a group can help consensus be fun and effective, rather than dreadful and debilitating.
The Power of Process: How WindSong Created its Community Contribution System .....	64
Communities 148, 50–53	Andrea Welling
A cohousing community employs a Consensus Process for Complex Topics to tackle a perennially difficult area and create an effective Community Contribution System.
The Straw Poll that Broke the Camel’s Back .....	68
Communities 148, 54–55	Laird Schaub
Straw polls can keep alive a competitive dynamic that undercuts the attempt to build and maintain a collaborative culture.
Six Traps: How Good Meetings Go Bad .....	70
Communities 149, 64	Beatrice Briggs
Intelligent agenda planning is essential to keeping participants engaged and meetings productive.

Poor Minutes Lead to Wasted Hours: Keys to Effective Notetaking .....	71
Communities 149, 65	Laird Schaub
Every group needs to address a range of questions about what they want minutes to accomplish, and how.
The Tyranny of Structurelessness? .....	72
Communities 151, 10–11	Tree Bressen, Laird Schaub
A default “we-don’t-need-no-stinking-agreements” point of view clashes with a wish for clear agreements and more control.
Review: We the People .....	74
Communities 154, 65–66	Diana Leafe Christian
This guide to Sociocratic principles and methods offers empowering tools to groups seeking effective governance and decision-making processes.
Busting the Myth that Consensus-with-Unanimity Is Good for Communities, Part I .....	76
Communities 155, 42–49	Diana Leafe Christian
How can a diverse group best make decisions? After many years advocating it, the author concludes that consensus is not the answer.
“Busting the Myth”: How Consensus Can Work .....	84
Communities 155, 50–53	Laird Schaub
A longtime consensus trainer describes how, when used properly, consensus can lead to both better decisions and better relationships.
“Busting the Myth”: Some Questions .....	88
Communities 155, 54–55	Ma’ikwe Schaub Ludwig
When assessing why a community is struggling to make decisions, we need to ask first how they handle conflict resolution, group-process training, and entrenched patterns.
Busting the Myth, or Changing the Terms? .....	90
Communities 155, 56–57	Tree Bressen
Want a “problem” person to behave differently? Give a different response.
Busting the Myth that Consensus-with-Unanimity Is Good for Communities, Part II .....	92
Communities 156, 60–64	Diana Leafe Christian
Consensus as practiced in most communities is a “Type One Design Error.” Here are some of the reasons why.
A Few Basic Process Points for Happy Community Life:
Response to “Busting the Myth, Part II” .....	97
Communities 156, 65	Tree Bressen
No decision-making method is perfect, but consensus when practiced well avoids pitfalls.
“Busting the Myth, Part II”: More Thoughts .....	98
Communities 156, 66–67	Laird Schaub
Tactics like outmaneuvering people with supermajorities rather than striving for consensus don’t move us in the cultural direction we urgently need in this polarized world.
Review: Group Works .....	100
Communities 156, 80	Chris Roth
This new card deck—“a pattern language for bringing life to meetings and other gatherings”—marks a milestone in group-process resources.

Thinking Flexibly About Consensus .....	102
Communities 157, 62–63	Tim Hartnett, Ph.D.
A collaborative, cooperative, agreement-building discussion can happen without requiring unanimity as the decision rule.
How the “N Street Consensus Method” Helps N Street Cohousing Thrive .....	104
Communities 157, 64–65	Diana Leafe Christian
A deterrent to frivolous, personal blocking, N Street’s method balances power with responsibility.
Consensus and the Burden of Added Process: Are There Easier Ways to Make Decisions?: Busting the Myth That Consensus-with-Unanimity Is Good for Communities, Part III .....	106
Communities 158, 56–60	Diana Leafe Christian
People don’t all move to community for the same reasons; emotional processing which is nourishing for some is onerous to others.
With Arms Spread Wide with Love .....	111
Communities 158, 61–63	Arjuna da Silva
Patience, humor, and inner work are required to build community from the ground up; and sometimes “consensing on the right side of the brain” is exactly what’s needed.
Saying Goodbye to Consensus-with-Unanimity in European Communities: Busting the Myth that Consensus-with-Unanimity Is Good for Communities, Part IV .....	114
Communities 159, 58–61	Diana Leafe Christian ;
Several European groups have modified consensus for more harmony, trust, and connection; others have changed to newer governance and decision-making models.
Transparency, Equivalence, and Effectiveness: How Sociocracy Can Help Communities, Part I .....	119
Communities 160, 59–63	Diana Leafe Christian
Sociocracy contains the essential governance elements that can help a community thrive.
Self-Governance with Circles and Double Links: How Sociocracy Can Help Communities, Part II .....	124
Communities 161, 61–66	Diana Leafe Christian
Making decisions in many interconnected smaller circles can be more effective and efficient than making decisions in one big, whole-community circle.
Consent Decision-Making and Community Vision, Mission, and Aim: How Sociocracy Can Help Communities, Part III .....	130
Communities 163, 57–63	Diana Leafe Christian
Sociocracy’s well-structured decision-making methods and its emphasis on clarity of purpose contribute to its success.
Radical Governance Changes in Two North American Ecovillages .....	138
Communities 164, 59–64	Diana Leafe Christian
Earthaven and Dancing Rabbit take leaps forward in their decision-making and governance systems.
Why No Tyranny of the Minority in Sociocracy: How Sociocracy Can Help Communities, Part IV .....	144
Communities 165, 60–63	Diana Leafe Christian
Sociocracy includes built-in remedies for dealing with debilitating blocking, including asking someone to leave the circle.

The Top 10 Most Common Mistakes in Consensus Process and What to Do Instead.....	148
Communities 166, 56–57	Tree Bressen
It's possible to do consensus—like any other process—poorly, but addressing common pitfalls can help it be a boon rather than a bane to your group.
Misconceptions about Sociocracy.....	150
Communities 167, 80, 79	Diana Leafe Christian
The supposed shortcomings of Sociocracy are mostly based on misunderstandings of the system.
Sociocracy, Feelings, and Emotions .....	153
Communities 169, 63–65	Jock Millenson
Kalikalos members make community decisions with the help of Sociocracy, and work through feelings and emotions using other tools, ideally at a separate time and place.
The Six Steps of Proposal-Forming in Sociocracy.....	156
Communities 169, 66–67	Diana Leafe Christian
Sociocracy's proposal-forming methods can be used independently and can benefit any community, whatever its decision-making methods.
Selecting People for Roles (Sociocracy Elections): How Sociocracy Can Help Communities, Part VII .....	158
Communities 170, 60–64	Diana Leafe Christian
Sociocracy's steps for filling roles have distinct advantages over both volunteering (self-nomination) and majority-vote elections.
The Seven Steps of Sociocracy—Putting it All Together.....	163
Communities 172, 63–66	Diana Leafe Christian
Sociocracy's separate parts work best when used in concert.
Facilitating Diverse Groups.....	167
Communities 173, 20–23	Starhawk
Social edges may become places of intense conflict and pain. Skilled facilitation can help assure that diversity brings growth, resilience, learning, and enrichment to our groups.
Saying “No” to Prospective Members .....	171
Communities 173, 44–45	Laird Schaub
The ability to say “no” to people who want to join your community but who are not a good fit can be one measure of your group's maturity.
Avoiding “Sociocracy Wars”: How Communities Learn Sociocracy and Use It Effectively...Or Not .....	173
Communities 173, 58–61	Diana Leafe Christian
There are three requirements for using Sociocracy in order to truly benefit of it—and not meeting these conditions can be a recipe for failure.
III. POWER, GENDER, CLASS, AND RACE
The Bully Question .....	179
Communities 145, 10–14	Tree Bressen, Laird Schaub, Beatrice Briggs
How can a community deal with a member who frequently gets their own way by domination, belittling, and noncooperation?
Balancing Powers: Leadership and Followership in Community .....	184
Communities 148, 30–33	Elizabeth Barrette
In a healthy community, leadership and followership are equally important roles, each with vital skill sets that can assure effective teamwork.

More Perspectives on Leadership and Followership: A Response to Elizabeth Barrette . . . . .	188
Communities 148, 34–35, 75	Ma'ikwe Schaub Ludwig
The author identifies additional leadership skills, cautions against blind followership, and reflects on the many types of power in cooperative groups.
Power and Powerlessness in Community . . . . .	192
Communities 148, 36–37	Markus Euler
A community member transcends a feeling of powerlessness when he inadvertently comes up with a brilliant idea about how to organize cooking groups, and others join him in implementing it.
Dancing with Discomfort: Thoughts on Empowerment from a Reluctantly Powerful Person . .	194
Communities 148, 38–40	Kristina Jansen
Welcomed back into her childhood community as an adult, the author comes to terms not only with her intrinsic reluctance to be in charge of anything, but also with her own inherent power.
Power and Disempowerment on the Ecobus . . . . .	197
Communities 148, 41–47	Chris Roth
Some saw this radical environmental education program as a “cult,” others as an intensely focused experience of challenge and growth. Had participants lost their individuality, or gained a new sense of self?
Gender Dynamics in Cooperative Groups . . . . .	204
Communities 162, 6–8	Laird Schaub
Intentional community is an incredibly potent laboratory for experimenting with gender dynamics in pursuit of a better life for all.
Gender: Is There a “There” There? . . . . .	207
Communities 162, 10–11	Chris Roth
Gender is a continuum, not a strict duality—and our identities and relationships are much more nuanced and rich than traditional gender definitions would have them be.
On This Episode of “Girls with Tools” . . . . .	210
Communities 162, 12–13	Cole Wardell
At The Midden, members confront the effects of patriarchy not only in their outside activism, but also within their community.
Particulate Matter . . . . .	212
Communities 162, 14–15	Molly Shea
Unconscious gender-related expectations, inequities, and trauma can exert pervasive influence even in groups committed to undoing them.
Sexism at Dancing Rabbit . . . . .	214
Communities 162, 16–19	Sam Makita
At a community founded in feminism, a member suggests that strategies like corrective discrimination, single-gender gatherings, and prioritizing “gender balance” may themselves be sexist.
Gender-Bending on the Commune . . . . .	218
Communities 162, 24–25	Valerie Renwick
When a Twin Oaks member leads a tour, “co” must “address the dress” (when appropriate) and wear a shirt, whether or not participating in the collective menstrual calendar.
Evolving Gender Consciousness in New Culture Camps . . . . .	220
Communities 162, 28–33	Oblio Stroyman
A genderqueer member helps a community move beyond its past assumptions by offering workshops on exploring and expanding concepts of sex and gender identity.
• Gender at Summer Camp East—Michael Rios

Gender Identity and Sexual Orientation: Sharing a Heartfelt Conversation .....	226
Communities 162, 51–53, 75	Niánn Emerson Chase
An Apache childhood lays the groundwork for a lifelong dedication to cultivating self-esteem and personal wholeness in community.
Undressing and Addressing the Elephant in the Room .....	230
Communities 178, 6–7	Chris Roth
Intentional communities have great potential for addressing questions of class, race, and privilege—and also a LOT of work to do in all of these areas before reality can catch up to ideals.
Moving Beyond White Fragility: Lessons from Standing Rock .....	232
Communities 178, 15–16	Murphy Robinson
Bonded by a shared mission, indigenous water protectors and their white allies find a safe space for giving and receiving honest feedback about white privilege and unconscious acts of racism.
Growing Inclusivity in Cohousing: Stories and Strategies .....	234
Communities 178, 18–21	Rosemary Linares
Familiar with both privilege and marginalization, a queer Latina cohouser shares experiences and perspectives on confronting racial and ethnic homogeneity.
Bridging Social and Cultural Divides in Cohousing .....	238
Communities 178, 22	Alan O’Hashi
A Japanese-American Baby Boomer reflects on how cohousing can confront privilege and prejudice, instill cultural competency, and increase diversity in its population.
Reflections on Class from a Newbie at Rocky Hill Cohousing .....	239
Communities 178, 26–28	Jennifer Ladd
A cohousing project’s budget can help address class and classism—but the community also needs to articulate and explore its culture’s underlying or hidden rules.
Conversations on Class at Dancing Rabbit Ecovillage .....	242
Communities 178, 38–39	Sasha Adkins
Are ecovillages inherently elitist? Members of one share their thoughts and questions.
Class, Race, and Privilege in Intentional Community .....	244
Communities 178, 40–42	Kara Huntermoon
A co-owner of Heart-Culture Farm Community explores ways to use her privilege to help create a society where people are truly equal.
Why Diversity Is Good for Intentional Community .....	247
Communities 178, 43–44	Kara Huntermoon
A diverse community gives us better opportunities to challenge systems of oppression that operate within ourselves, in our circles of relationship, and throughout the larger world.
Combating Racism, One Community at a Time .....	249
Communities 178, 45–49	Jenny Truax
Catholic Worker communities throughout the Midwest examine themselves, make changes, and reach out in an effort to overcome the insidious influences of white supremacy.

IV. RELATIONSHIPS AND INTIMACY

Nudging at Boundaries .....	257
Communities 146, 18–19	Julie Boerst
Easing themselves in and out of each other’s houses, yards, and chicken coops, members of White Hawk Ecovillage find traditional borders becoming more porous.

Morehouse—Choosing Your Family .....	259
Communities 146, 35–39	Judy St. John, Ilana Firestone, and Marilyn Moohr, with Arlene Goens and Ben Oliver
You can pick your friends but you can't pick you family? The members of Lafayette Morehouse would beg to differ, although the Cleavers they are not.
Second Family .....	264
Communities 146, 40, 77	Arizona Nashoba
A mother responds to empty-nest syndrome by discovering her new family in community.
G8 .....	266
Communities 146, 44–45	Lawrence Siskind
They don't represent any governments, they don't live together, and there are nine of them, not eight, but these polyamorous friends still feel empowered to love each other, addressing one another with the f-word: family.
Exploring Family .....	268
Communities 146, 46–50	Chris Roth
What do Hopi Indians, John Keats, lost loves, intentional community, and family have in common? For better or worse, they've combined to befuddle, enlighten, dismay, and inspire our author.
Review: Together and Apart .....	273
Communities 146, 80, 78	Chris Roth
A memoir about life in a convent causes the reviewer to unclioister his thought habits about the differences between secular and religious intentional communities.
Being Vigilant About Vigilante Dynamics .....	275
Communities 150, 6, 9	Laird Schaub
Let's not use mental health labels to stigmatize and categorize those we find difficult.
Crazy About Community .....	277
Communities 150, 11, 13	Chris Roth
If the editor is off his rocker, can community furnish the solution?
Gifted, Mad, and Out of Control .....	280
Communities 150, 14–17	Alexis Zeigler
The author recounts his personal history with the "mentally ill" — social misfits who can show us the way to a better world, if they are allowed to make the journey.
Walking Wounded .....	284
Communities 150, 18–21	Gigi Wahba
Born into a society pervaded by mental stress, the author reflects on approaches to mental wellness in her family, her former spiritual community, and her current group.
The Influence of Community on Mental Health .....	288
Communities 150, 30–31, 78	Cindy and Friends
[Cindy Baranco, Ilana Firestone, Marilyn Moohr, and Judy St. John]
The best way of supporting those with mental health issues is to keep them involved in community life, relating to them as whole people rather than marginalizing them.
Hand in Hand, Heart to Heart: Peer Counseling in Community .....	291
Communities 150, 32–35	Amara Karuna
With loving help from others, the old emotional distresses that can sabotage both our mental health and our relationships in community can be cleared and permanently resolved.

Shadow Sides of NVC and Co-Counseling .....	295
Communities 150, 35	Dona Willoughby
To make best use of nonviolent communication and co-counseling, avoid these traps.
Prescription Facebook: How can Facebook act as an agent of mental health to a community fragmented 20 years ago? .....	296
Communities 150, 36–38	Sandy Brown Jensen
Ex-members of the Emissaries of Divine Light reflect on their shared past and discover more holistic approaches to inner wellness as they reunite online.
Rx for “Mental Illness”: Caring Community .....	299
Communities 150, 39–41	Brian Toomey
How can we best support mental health? Caring attention—even from amateurs—can promote healing unattainable through impersonal approaches or drugs.
A Nomad Ponders Family and the Ecstasy of the Group .....	303
Communities 151, 15–20	Molly Hollenbach
To a former communitarian and long-time student of community, utopian experiments—some sweet, some gone sour—offer valuable lessons about oneness, diversity, and intimacy.
Honesty and Intimacy .....	309
Communities 151, 21–24	Damien Friedlund
In the author’s first, very intense intentional community immersion, revealing the truth led to love and intimacy. He left that group, but, in many spheres of life, emotional and intellectual honesty became his religion.
Love Is the Answer .....	313
Communities 151, 25–26	Satyama Lasby
Transcending jealousy, attachment, and hurt is not only possible—it’s a spiritual experience, once one realizes that love is freedom, and freedom is truth.
Dreaming It Up: Our 20-Year Experiment with Open Marriage in Community .....	315
Communities 151, 27–29	Jake and Bell
In relationships based on honesty and transparency, sharing is not as scary as it might seem.
The Relationship of Relationships to the Group .....	318
Communities 151, 30–31	Laird Schaub
Relationships don’t exist in a vacuum. Through a culture of communication and support, communities can create the healthy container which relationships need in order to flourish.
Three Perspectives on Intimacy in Community:
The Cavalry is Just Around the Corner .....	320
Communities 151, 32–34	Kiva Lindsey
When You Feel All Alone	Jane Hillis
Little Intimacies	Lynne Goodman
A starter marriage, a spouse’s health crisis, and the small details that define each person shed light on the meaning of intimacy.
Intimacy in the Village Setting .....	323
Communities 151, 35–37	Ted Sterling
After a journey from nuclear family life through student coops, an ecovillager finds rich opportunities for intimacy, in many diverse forms—not just with lovers and family.
The Solace of Friends in Community .....	326
Communities 151, 38–39	Alline Anderson
Women’s Empowerment Circles offer community-within-community, building trust, caring, and mutual support.

Fascinating Selfhood .....	328
Communities 151, 40–41	Kim Scheidt
Do you think a half-century-old book on proper “womanhood,” much of whose advice is guaranteed to cause feminists to scream out in indignation, has nothing to teach us? Think again.
The Path of Community .....	330
Communities 154, 64	Barbara Stützel
Embracing the spiritual path of community means dedicating oneself to exploring the human being.
Expressing Gratitude in Community .....	331
Communities 159, 20–22	Devon Bonady
Communities and their members can change and drift apart, but the lessons and tools gained in community endure.
Fostering Vulnerability .....	334
Communities 159, 23–24	Eli Winterfeld
A “community kid” recognizes that communities, neighborhoods, and institutions all benefit by encouraging true sharing and vulnerability.
Bringing Home Lessons from Community Living .....	336
Communities 159, 25–27, 71	Melanie Rios
Diversity, ritual, storytelling, generosity, and open discussions of power all facilitate healthy group-living dynamics.
New Culture Perspectives for Everyday Life .....	340
Communities 159, 28–32	Sarah Taub with Michael Rios
New Culture Camps and communities offer numerous skills and insights to enhance happiness, wholeness, and connection.
Quad-Parenting in Intentional Community .....	346
Communities 160, 34–37	Stephanie Powers
In a relationship’s ending at Sunrise Ranch, children gain rather than lose parents.
Parenting in a Community of Friends: Happiness and Heartbreak .....	350
Communities 160, 38–39	Kristina Jansen
Living in an extended community family brings joy, challenge, and new worlds of possibility.
Healing Gender Issues through Community .....	352
Communities 162, 45–50	Marcus DeGauche
Long-dormant childhood gender issues resurface in an intimate relationship in community—and this time avoidance and escape aren’t options.
Deepening Community: The joy of togetherness .....	358
Communities 164, 10–12	Paul Born
Community grows when we make time to share our stories, enjoy one another, take care of one another, and work on building a better world together.
A Community Conversation at Whole Village .....	361
Communities 164, 18–19	Sylvia Cheuy
For intentional community members, community comes with added benefits, unique challenges, and a call to authenticity.
A Welcome Intimacy, or Too Little Privacy?: Community Conversations at Lost Valley .....	363
Communities 164, 32–35	Macy Osborne
Is community living the best thing since sliced bread, or the worst thing since sliced bread? It depends who—and when—you ask.

Transparency, Vulnerability, Interdependence, and Collaboration:
An Intergenerational Perspective from a Boomer and a Millennial ..... 367
Communities 166, 38–40 Melanie Rios and Skye Rios
 We will realize our collective power by embracing a new paradigm that replaces our inherited emphasis on confidentiality, stoicism, and independence.

How to Live Together in Harmony. ..... 370
Communities 169, 62 Cedar Rose Selenite
 Whether in a family, a roommate situation, an intentional community, or a working group, these five skills can help us coexist harmoniously,

Ecosexuality: Embracing a Force of Nature. ..... 371
Communities 173, 27–29 Lindsay Hagamen
 Only when we create a container that is loving enough and strong enough to embrace the erotic, do we create a container that is loving enough and strong enough to embrace all of Life itself.

Remembering Zendik: *Mating in Captivity ..... 374
Communities 179, 76–75 Chris Roth
 Helen Zuman’s debut book describes in detail her six-year-long involvement with a radical intentional community that also fits many people’s definition of “cult.”

V. POLITICS AND NEIGHBOR RELATIONS

Politics at Twin Oaks: Distinguishing “Acceptable” from “Combustible” ..... 379
Communities 140, 52, 62 Valerie Renwick-Porter
 When it comes to talking about politics, some topics are like opening a can of worms while walking through a field of landmines.

Bursting the Bubble: The Challenges of Progressive Community Living in the Rural South. ... 381
Communities 148, 56–59 Doug Alderson
 Everyone needs a bubble—whether of “light,” of security, or of connection—but it can also be too rigid and confining.

Zoning Nightmare: Hartford’s Scarborough Street House ..... 386
Communities 168, 26–28 Dave Rozza, Hannah Simms, Josh Blanchfield, Julia Rosenblatt, Kevin Lamkins, Laura Rozza, Maureen Welch, and Simon Raahauge DeSantis
 An unconventional family fights to stay in their collective house in the face of antiquated local ordinances which suppress community living.

Neighbor Nightmare in Northern California. ..... 389
Communities 168, 30–34 Chris Roth
 When the calling to cultivate community is combined with good intentions, what can go wrong? The answer is: a lot.

Public vs. Private: Group Dilemma Laid Bare! ..... 394
Communities 173, 30 M. Broiling and T. Shirtless
 For some neighbors, the logical leap from “glimpse of skin” to “nudist colony” is a surprisingly short one to make.

Lessons in Participatory Democracy ..... 395
Communities 173, 40–41 Sylvan Bonin
 After being blindsided by “dumb growth” developments on their borders, Songaia residents debate how involved to become in protecting land beyond their own neighborhood.

White Bias, Black Lives: When Unconscious Bias Affects Your Community. ..... 397
Communities 178, 23–25 Katy Mattingly
 Members of Sunward Cohousing recognize and attempt to transform their community’s differential treatment of white-skinned and dark-skinned neighborhood children.